

A review of export problems of Iranian flower and ornamental plants

A. Bashirazami

Flowers, Mushroom and Medical Plants Affairs, Horticultural deputy, Ministry of Agriculture, Tehran.

Iran is a typical country in the world because having various climatical conditions. Enormous varieties of plants caused during long time including ornamental, medicinal, edible and other plants all have important role in economical and cultural aspects of community.

Advance and improve of this section of horticultural economics require these parts:

1. Improve the science and technology of production, sorting, packing, transport, marketing and others.
2. We should provide the modern tools for production. For example, modern greenhouse irrigation, fertilization and others.
3. We require the capable system for exchange the commercial data.
4. We require constant supporting of any governmental organization, for export of these production. For example customs, banks, airports and others.