Jahad Daneshgahi, Shahid Beheshti University, Tehran.

The medicinal plant research center of Jahad Daneshgahi is established in 1988, aiming to study medicinal plants from different point of views including agricultural and pharamaceutical aspects. Nowadays, our research work is focused on 250 plant species which their seeds are collected from differet countries including Japan, USA, Hungary, Netherland, Cyprus, Turkey.

In addition, we collected seeds from different parts of our country.

In agricultural section of this center, several projects are conducting to get better understanding and required information about their agricultural practices to improve the quantity and quality of yield in regards to thier medicinal contents. However, in pharmaceutical section, our colleagues are doing their own research to produce plant source medicines.
